

ABPN verifyCERT™

● Certification and Status Verification System

* Subspecialty with a dependency on a primary Specialty for certification status. See ABPN web site for more details.

Unrestricted medical licensure is a requirement to maintain certification by the ABPN. Licensure data may be reported to the ABPN through the Federation of State Medical Boards, individual state medical licensing boards, or self-reported by physicians. The ABPN cannot guarantee the certification status resulting from the loss or restriction of licensure if the loss or restriction has not been reported to the ABPN.

The information on this page is current as of the date indicated. New diplomates will not appear on these pages until approximately 60 days following each examination period. The information displayed contains information related to certificates issued by the ABPN. For information about certificates issued by other Boards, contact the ABMS (www.abms.org) or the individual issuing Board.
